Letter of Recommendation

We first learned about ceramic coatings 12 years ago when we were a young family with 2 toddlers and were very expensive conscious. We needed to paint our house and obtained several quotes from reputable painters and also one we saw in the newspaper as a ceramic guard dealer that touted 25 years reliability; the claims in the ad captured our interest.

After reviewing all our options, although the ceramic coating option was the most expensive option by a small margin, we felt that if the product performed half as good as advertised, we'd still save money in the long run knowing we'd be painting ever 4-5 years. We crossed our fingers and awarded the work to the sales representative, Jeff Ecklund.

The job was completed by professional crew painting a variety of materials and areas that included our soffit and fascia trim, galvanized steel gutters, louvered shutters, and Masonite siding, the garage door, vinyl window frames and sashes and all exterior wood and steel doors. The workmanship was superior, neat and the grounds were cleaned at the end of each work day.

Today, 12 years later, we are painting our house again using the ceramic coating product. This time, we are re-painting not out of necessity, but because we are changing colors. After all these years, regardless of the surface-wood, steel, vinyl and manmade products, we have never had any problems with paint cracking, peeling, molding or chipping. The adhesion of the product has been superior and it looks as good as the day it was first painted 12 years ago. This product is for real and I won't ever use anything else.

As a further testimonial to the product, when we called Georgia Coatings, we were very pleased to find our original sales representative from 12 years ago, Jeff and his wife Roxanne Ecklund, had now purchased the company-talk about confidence in the product which is now branded as Rhino Shield.

We highly recommend this product to anyone wanting a durable coating that doesn't fade and wears like iron. We'd be happy to share our experience.

Respectfully,

Jack and Debbie Malinowski
